MEMPHIS APPEAL

DEFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CITY. MONDAY MORNING, : : : : NOV. 13, 1871.

DEMOCRATIC MASS MEETING

Pursuant to a call, numerously signed a Mass Meeting of the Democracy Memphis will be held in the Greenlaw Operahouse on Saturday, December 9th, for the purpose of nominating candidates f r mayor and other municipal offices,

THE MEMPHIS FIREMEN. We published yesterday a letter from J. E. Chadwick, fire commissioner of Chicago, Captain B. Brady, president of the Memphis relief association, acknowledging the receipt of one thousand dollars, contributed to the sufferers at Chicago. The amount contributed by the Memphis firemen is a high tribute to the organiza- us to pay the old issue thus substitute tion. Indeed, our fire department is a for the new? In what is the moral oblieredit to the city. Memphis has much gation to pay greater, as it affects the one to be proud of in her many bless- class of bonds, than the other? The one ings and advantages in the benevo- has been exchanged for the other, and are lence and public-spirited philanthropy of the people to be the victims of the crooked her people, in their energy, enterprise fraude? The Memphis and Charteston and patriotism ; but after all, the bright-road thought it must return to the comp jewel in her tiars—the crowning troller honest bonds, the identical paper beauty, and distinguishing characteristic paper issued to it, while other roads have of our city, are the efficiency, the order, used fraudulent paper in extinguishing the admirable peace and good feeling their liabilities, and the process has been which distinguish her powerful fire organization. Whilst in other cities, the holds nothing but such bonds as we ussfulness of this department, is greatly impaired, and its dignity compromised, by frequent broils and, riots here our fire- pondent, and should the honest railroads men are the very conservators of the peace, as well as the guardians of the property of the citizens. A fraternal feeling restrains the arder of rivalry, and an aprit de corps checks the slightest tendency to disorder. Long live, any we, long live our noble Fire Brigade—the boast and pride of the city! A cynical philosopher once said that was was the srms to be placed in the seas eriginal state of man-that there was an sas, the srms to be placed in the original state of man—that there was en invincible tendency in men to destroy one another. He pointed to the large standing armies of nations, as proofs of his position. The philosopher would have met his refutation here, in pointing to our largest organized bodies. He would have intraced that they were united together for quite an opposite purpose to that of milibers and organizations; that there were thomesands of our best citizens, who determined to be placed in the placed in the hards of Clayton's negro militia. The proposition of a correspondent of Har obligations of that State. It happens, however, that the stolen bonds of Tennessee are the very bonds that have been paid into the Tressury of the State by such bonds as were issued to the Mineral to pay dollar for dollar, Home, and Knoxville and Charleston roads, even if scoepted by the State Comptroller, would not release the company. to secure specific [old] bonds. The equities of this mortgage passed to the holder of these designated bonds, and unless the road could buy and deliver them up to the comptroller, the road would still owe the holder of the identical old bonds which had been femed to it. Such was the opinion of learned lawyers, and, therefore two years ago, the Memphis and Charles buy the depreciated Brownlow bonds of

In other cases there was greater boldness evinced by rallway companies, because they could afford, like men of des perate fortunes, to risk everything The Memphis and Charleston company had credit and the best equipped road in the South, and could not incur the hazard Drarrow Gauge Falls of paying twice a debt of this magnitude it is probable that the identical bonds ssued to the Memphis and Charleston company are still outstanding. An ilostration of the manner in which the Brownlow bonds have been absorbed by the comptroller's office was given in the transaction alleged to have occurred when a railroad builder, fearing that nine hundred and sixty bonds of the Brownlow sort held by him would be repudiated he exchanged them with another railroad operator for old boncs and pald forty ousand dollars for the exchange. This purchaser of the Brownlow bonds had access to the throne and used this bogus paper in paying the debt uad to the State, Of course, the comptroiler might have known, by comparing the numbers and dates of the Bonds thus received by him with memoda on his books, to what road they had been issued, and thus that they were fraudulent; but such information was not dedrable, even though the legislature instructed this officer to beware of those 317 ine hundred and sixty bonds. They MAIN were taken up and bonds issued in good faith were left outstanding in their stead. But who holds the valid bonds? The same ring that paid in the bogus paper of the State. In order to practice its rescali es, the ring was forced to manage and hold both sorts of bonds. It prevented Brownlow's payment of interest by a bogus chancery proceeding, (with which we do not know that Mr. McGhee had aught to do, though Knoxville men had and Knoxville was then a very a small place) and bought new bonds at forty ents, and then began to make ex hanges, such as we have wribed, of new for old, and used men, having influence with both Brownlow and Senter, to have these bogus bonds accepted in payment of railroad debts. In exchange for Brownlow bonds the ring received old bonds, and the price of the new issue was then steadily advanced. But what obligation rests upon so conducted that the ring effecting it now honestly issued? Should these be puid, is the inquiry made by our excellent corres and the people be the only victims?
